Speakers

Phillipe Benoit, Global Infrastructure Advisory Services 2050; Columbia University's Center on Global Energy Policy and Joeri de Wit, World Bank

Much of the analysis of energy efficiency investments has focused on energy savings. But for developing countries, the value of energy efficiency arguably lies more in the additional goods and services that energy efficiency can generate to raise standards of living. This webinar will discuss how to adapt the economic analysis to capture this different perspective.
